Beinfeld Wagner & Associates, P.C., East Norwalk, CT

Seafair Restaurant/Retail Center, Dania, FL
Herbert S. Newman Associates, AIA, PC, New Haven, CT

Photographer: Nick Wheeler/ Wheeler Photographics

Jury comments: "The general organization of the masses is very dynamic. It's intriguing, wanting to take you out further and further in to the water. The various levels of platforms seem to be quite exciting as it induces you to explore every shop. You seem to be drawn to go there which is the sign of a very successful shopping center. The project's lightness and airiness speaks of the southern climate. You can almost feel the wind blowing through the forms."

Oliver & Lorraine Grace Auditorium, Cold Spring Harbor, NY
William H. Grover, FAIA and James C. Childress, AIA, Centerbrook Architects, Essex, CT

Photographer: Peter Aaron

Jury comments: "The plan of this building sets up a very nice progression as you approach the porch face and proceed through its lobby into the theatre itself. The roof monitors clearly mark the progression and give a clear indication of the nature of the building. While it's outrageous, which is nice, it gives a nice mix between a kind of formality and informality."

Jefferson B. Riley, AIA, Centerbrook Architects, Essex, CT

Photographer: Peter Mauss/Esto

Jury comments: "It's an elegant and sophisticated house that takes detail to a really high level of sophistication." Jurors praised the curved wall which was "particularly well done as a way of giving an interesting edge to the spaces on the ground floor. The curved wall makes it quite dynamic, separating the public space from the private space. The many geometric forms never seem to be arbitrary."

East Hampton Community Center, East Hampton, CT
Mark Simon, AIA, Centerbrook Architects, Essex, CT

Photographer: Steve Rosenthal

Jury comments: Jurors praised the one story building for “its massing which gives a sense of place, identity and strength one doesn’t normally associate with a one story building. The detailing was carefully handled and its unpredictable exterior is not an obvious architectural solution, more abstracted and of a dynamic quality.”

INTERIOR CITATION

Stirling Cove Condominium, Greenport, NY
Jackson & Page Architects, Guilford, CT

Photographer: Norman McGrath

Jury comments: The jury remarked that they had "seen a number of multi-family projects, many worthy of words of mention for various aspects of their design. This one, in particular, seems to put together a number of elements that one would look for. The detailing is extraordinarily well executed for the budget. The use of materials and detail seems to make it quite a nice place to be and it is particularly sensitive and restrained."

Photographer: Norman McGrath

Jury comments: Jurors complimented the architect for an intelligent solution which is sensitive to the spirit of the original buildings done by Cram, Goodhue and Ferguson in 1914. The project “adds a kind of abstracted feeling with openness and lightness. The plan works well with the form of the land and to the adjacent structures.”
