

David LaBau Scholarship

The S/L/A/M Collaborative in conjunction with the University of Hartford has established “The David N. LaBau Memorial Architecture Scholarship” at the newly accredited program. The scholarship will be awarded to a student enrolled in the second year of the Master of Architecture program in the College of Engineering, Technology and Architecture who demonstrates outstanding academic work and leadership.

David LaBau, a former president of AIA Connecticut, was instrumental in the establishment of the Architecture program at the University of Hartford. In addition, he was one of a small group of professionals that founded the Construction Institute at the University to bring together the fragmented components of the industry to solve mutual problems and improve the quality of design and construction delivery to clients.
