Publications are available through our office to help you understand the design and construction process and working with an architect. Please contact AIA Connecticut at 203-865-2195.

For help in selecting an architect for your school, library, hospital, police or fire station, town hall, you may use the FREE services of the Qualifications Based Selection (QBS) facilitator, whose services are paid for by AIA Connecticut and other design professionals' associations. The facilitator will guide your building committee in a selection process that is objective, open and fair. It is the same process used by the State of Connecticut, the U. S. Government, and most municipalities. For more information about the free service and the QBS process, call 860-635-5522, email info@ctqbs.org or visit the QBS website for more information.
