EXCELLENCE

Seaside Shingle | VanderHorn Architects

Jury comments: A lovely home that captures the traditional shingle style. Highly detailed exterior and interior. The scale of the front elevation helps ground the building while the larger rear elevation of glass takes advantage of the views and connection to the site.

Jury comments: Beautiful project that is well-sited and integrated into nature. The interior detailing and intersection of multiple materials is very well done. The use of geothermal heating and solar panels is commendable.

Jury comments: The pool house design did a beautiful job of creating a multi-functional space that connected to the landscape. Nicely composed including a well-executed simplicity of form.

MERIT

Villa Pomme | Lovas Architects, LLC

Jury comments: Beautifully structured and layered site plan that is well scaled for the space. Stonework is nicely done. The updated kitchen and bathroom are a thoughtful incorporation of traditional architecture serving contemporary experiences. The clean and formal design of the landscape works well as a contrast to some of the more rustic materials of the pool house.
